

THE 2019 SCIENCES PO-BOSPHORUS PRIZE AWARDED TODAY AT SCIENCES PO PARIS

Inviting youth to take part in strengthening the French-Turkish bilateral relations by providing concrete recommendations

The annual Sciences Po-Bosphorus Prize rewards the excellence of papers written by Sciences Po students on the Turkey – France – EU triangular relations. It constitutes one of the main pillars of a partnership developed in 2016 between Institut du Bosphore and Sciences Po with the aim to encourage opportunities to study and to foster debate around French-Turkish relationships, with a focus on business and economic ties.

For this third edition, the students were invited to reflect upon the topic of “Turkey, France, EU: What scope for solving common challenges?” and provide concrete policy recommendations.

Following a selection procedure led by a joint Paris School of International Affairs of Sciences Po (PSIA)-Institut du Bosphore jury based on the quality of the research and of the writing and the feasibility of the policy recommendations, the 2019 prize was awarded to Ediz Topcuoğlu as the first-prize winner and W. Jason Essomba, as the second-prize winner, both students of the PSIA International Security Master program.
